Youngblood accused of assessment abuses

Romulus, Van Buren, Canton join suit against drain commissioner

By MAUREEN RADEMACHER
Roman Staff Writer

Officials from the townships of Canton, Van Buren, Huron and Brownstown and the cities of Riverview and Romulus are suing the Wayne County Drain Commissioner on charges of "acting improperly and illegally" in assessment procedures for drain cleaning.

Named along with Drain Commissioner Charles N. Youngblood in the suit are the Wayne County Board of Commissioners, Wayne County and the Wayne County treasurer.

The six communities accuse Youngblood of a variety of abuses of his office. They claim he has illegally used assessment money that should be earmarked solely for drain cleaning to pay administrative costs of his office.

The complaint states that "78 percent of every dollar received by special assessment was used for administrative expenses, which should have been an expense of the Wayne County General Fund." That leaves only 22 percent of every dollar sent to the drain commissioner from the communities for actual maintenance and repair of drains. According to state law, administrative costs are to be paid by the county general fund, "the charge states."

In addition, the communities claim that much of the work that they have been asked for has never been done at all.

They further accused Youngblood of failing to notify residents of special assessments, paying fringe benefits out of the assessment money, and charging "far in excess" of the $800 limit per mile for drain repair. That dollar limit is mandated by state law, unless approved by half the communities in the drainage district.

Bringing suit against Youngblood and the county were the treasurers from each community. Carl Parsell signed for Canton Township; John B. Lewkowicz for Romulus; Dorothy York for Van Buren Township; Richard F. Sullivan for Huron

Test to focus on developmental lag in children

If your three-month child has problems following a moving object with his eyes, if he does not have good head control at six months old, if he is unable to say even the simplest word by the time he is about a year old, he may be exhibiting some early signs of a developmental lag that may denote a more serious problem.

Many physical, mental and psychological deficits are not easily recognized. However, if the problem is discovered soon enough, the result can be total recovery. But often children suffer needlessly as a result of their parents failure to realize the seriousness of developmental problems.

Communities United for Action (CUFA) and the Metropolitan Society for Crippled Children and Adults (MSCCA) has formed an association in an effort to identify and treat children in the Romulus & Sumpter communities who may have developmental problems.

The individuals serviced include children from birth through sixteen years of age with orthopedic, neurological or neuromuscular disorders; sensory communication and those with psychological and social problems resulting from physical disabilities.

A pamphlet is available entitled "Guide to the Developing Child" and will be distributed throughout Romulus and Sumpter Township. The pamphlet marks the milestones of a child's development and will assist parents in measuring a child's progress and perhaps give a clue to possible developmental deficiencies.

CUFA is now in the process of identifying and assisting residents of limited incomes in Romulus and Sumpter Township through its outreach capabilities. Referrals will then be made to MSCCA for evaluation, diagnosis, treatment and follow-up.

Meetings between parents and the MSCCA staff has been scheduled in Romulus and Sumpter Township. In Romulus, a meeting will be held on Monday, July 12 at 1:30 p.m. in the Community Room of the Romulus City Hall, 11111 Wayne Road.

The meeting in Sumpter Township is scheduled for Monday, July 19 at 1 p.m. in the PRESCAD Clinic Annex, 24101 Sumpter Road.

For more information about the services of CUFA and MSCCA or further information about the meetings, persons are asked to call CUFA at 292-2110 or MSCCA at 341-4900.

Seniors' program aimed at cutting duplication

By JIM CARRAVALLAH
Roman Staff Writer

With the advent of programs suited exclusively for senior citizen needs, a danger exists that programs in one community will be duplicated at double the cost to local taxpayers.

However, a group has been functioning for more than a year in an effort to avoid such tax waste.

Known as the Senior Citizens Program Coordinating Council (SCPCC), the agency consists of representatives from Romulus, Huron, Van Buren Township, Sumpter Township and Taylor who view the "big picture" of senior services in those communities and attempt to suggest ways that programs from one community could serve seniors in other communities at a tax dollar savings.

Membership of the group consists not only of professionals involved in the operation of programs, but also senior citizens who utilize the programs and whose job it is to perse legislation affecting senior citizens, suggest program ideas and evaluate the effectiveness of programs on both a professional and lay level.

Professional members of the program include Louise Comey of the Family and Neighborhood Services, as chairman; Beth Spencer of the Romulus Help and Job Placement Center as secretary; Warren Brewer of the Van Buren Convalescent Center; Dorothy Rush of the Huron School District; Linda Cheek of The Number in Belleville; Eva Harrison of the Romulus Senior Citizens Nutrition Program, Dora Reich of the Romulus community, and Joan Haubrich and Marie DeBuyscher of the Romulus Recreation Department.

Present SCPCC programs include reviewing the work of all agencies and groups serving seniors; attempting to locate seniors in the community in need of services and assessing the needs for services in the community.

One of the goals of the SCPCC is to seek advice from community members on programs that are needed for seniors.

Persons with ideas concerning programs should contact the SCPCC in care of the Romulus Help Center, 35085 Goddard Road, Romulus, 48174.

Parade highlights

Stepping out

The Romulus Bicentennial Band, assemblage of local volunteers interested in playing music and serving in a marching band, was the highlight of the Romulus Bicentennial Parade. The marchers, some of whom hadn't served in a marching band for several years.

worked for weeks prior to the parade date under the direction of Romulus High School music director, Dick Kratz, to provide some of the martial music ass with a parade for the city's Sunday Bicentennial bash — Romulus Roman photo.

Community pride

It wasn't only the people of Romulus, but also the tax-paying business citizens of the community which participated in the community's "biggest and best" parade Sunday. Here, workers from the United Airlines contingent at Metropolitan Airport in Romulus ride on their Bicentennial bi-plane float as part of the community's celebration of 200 years of American independence. The float accompanied the marchers to the city's Elmer Johnson Park where community residents continued their celebration with a city-wide picnic. — Romulus Roman photo.

Parade pulchritude

Cheryl Brown, Romulus' Junior Miss, was one of the citizens who rode in the city's "biggest and best" parade July 4. Miss Brown, a recent graduate of Romulus High School, was one of hundreds of people who helped make a success of the city's July 4 Bicentennial Parade, which served as a prelude to a city-wide picnic held at Elmer Johnson Park later in the day. Better than 1,000 people watched the parade as it wound its way through downtown Romulus. — Romulus Roman photo.

Bicentennial salute

Sheryl Kaiser was one of the women chosen to lead the Romulus Bicentennial Band, an assemblage of volunteer residents, during the city's Bicentennial celebration. The Romulus High School graduate is one of the many volunteers who helped make the city's celebration of 200 years of American Independence one of the "biggest and best" celebrations of community pride in Romulus history. — Romulus Roman photo to Lothar E. Seniors against tax waste

Members of the Senior Citizens Program Coordinating Council met recently to review services offered citizens of the area. Watching

Hard task

Just before the rain showers (which failed to put a damper on the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Parade) the judges checked over the roster of entries. Eileen Kuchta (second from left), Judge James B. Stone, Lee Smith and Jeanette Brown had the difficult task of choosing winners. The three women were instructed to select first and second place winners for best overall float, most original and best theme. Judge Stone was assigned to the duty of earmarking the best color guard units in the military category. — ANP photo.

Damp tune

Slightly water-logged but perfectly in tune July 3 were members of the Plymouth Fife and Drum Corps who marched the 1-mile stretch along Ecorse Road which was closed off for the Van Buren Township Bicentennial Parade. The musicians were one of two groups — the Patriots and the Colonials — who came from neighboring Plymouth for the celebration. — ANP photo.

200th bikers

The bike brigade was a colorful addition to the big salute to America's 200th birthday July 3 in Van Buren Township. Among those who left with big grins on their faces were Natalie Higgins (front) who was awarded the first-place trophy for the clever way she had decorated her bicycle. Her pioneer-era costume is in direct contrast to her 1976 mode of transportation. Second place winner was Cheryl Slusarczyk (at left) and third was Scott Almone (in the Uncle Sam hat.) Marge Spino, a member of the Belleville Band Boosters Club, is shown behind Natalie — ANP photo.

Skidgell quits 38th District Dems race

A candidate for the 38th House district Democratic nomination has withdrawn from the race.

Almost at the same time he announced his candidacy, Russell H. Skidgell of Harris Road, Sumpter Township, withdrew his name from consideration and suggested that his supporters vote for candidate James R. Bruce instead.

"I would like to thank the people who have shown interest in my campaign and those who signed my petition for candidacy," Skidgell said in withdrawing from the race. "I'm withdrawing because at a meeting with many of my supporters, other interested parties and James Bruce, I learned that Mr. Bruce's political philosophy in terms of taxes, forced busing and the lack of representation in the district, is similar to mine."

Bruce and Skidgell were listed as candidates who will oppose incumbent state Representative Edward E. Mahalak in the Aug. 3 race for the Democratic nomination. The winner will face a Republican challenger in the race.

Skidgell's name still will be listed on the ballot, even though he has chosen not to campaign.

Former Romulus city attorney dies

Former Romulus City Attorney, William Munger, died recently of a heart attack.

The 56-year-old Walled Lake-based attorney, collapsed at a meeting two weeks ago and was declared dead on arrival at the hospital.

Mr. Munger served as Romulus city attorney from 1973-75, and most recently, had agreed to help in a lawsuit being brought against the Wayne County Drain Commissioner's office for what are believed to be illegal assessments against out-county residents.

Residents of Brownstown, Huron and Van Buren townships were joining in the class action to contest the drain commissioner's right to assess them for storm drain maintenance, and had asked Mr. Munger to represent them.

Mr. Munger is survived by a wife and eight children.

Belleville area chamber sets sidewalk sale date

The annual downtown Belleville sidewalk sale has been set for July 30 and 31.

Bob Parent, owner of Sun and Snow Sports in Belleville, is coordinator of this year's event.

According to Parent, the sidewalk sale will run from 9 a.m. to 8 p.m. July 30 and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. July 31.

"We're planning it a little different this year, possibly inviting outside businesses to the community for space in the street, so long as they're Chamber-area businesses," Parent said. "We want this year's festival to be a real chamber event, with all chamber businesses participating, whether they're in the city or not."

'We're planning it a little different this year...'

Parent said this year that the chamber will not provide space for "flea market"-type displays. However, the chamber will explore inviting arts and crafts exhibits.

"It's the philosophy of the chamber that this event should be a showcase for the talents of Belleville-area citizens as well as a place for the businessmen to show their goods," Parent said.

The chamber sidewalk sale coordinator added that the chamber should consider including a "farmers' market."

Parent said the flea market idea was rejected because he feared "people cleaning out their garages and bringing it to the city."

"I don't think businessmen are concerned about other similar businesses setting up booths in the downtown area, since the diversity of sales is one reason people will attend them," Parent said. "But having someone set up shop out of their car trunk with items from the garage would only demean the event."

Persons interested in obtaining space in the sales can make arrangements with Parent by calling him at 697-4459.

The final decision on which displays will go into the sales will be made by the chamber, on the suggestion of members of the Chamber's board of directors.

Lawsuit filed against drain commissioner

Township; Steve C. Berecz for Brownstown and Paul A. Kraft for Riverview.

Spokesman at the meeting was Brownstown Supervisor W. Curt Boller. Also attending were Canton Supervisor Robert Greenstein, Huron Township Supervisor George Moore, Van Buren Supervisor Elton Gollwitzer and County Commissioner Royce Smith, as well as other officials from the affected areas.

The treasurers brought suit because they felt they would be "in violation of the public trust if they had paid" the money to the county, Boller explained. In many communities, special assessments are put on the regular tax rolls, and then collected by the city or township along with other taxes. The community in turn pays the county its due amount.

However, the treasurers balked at paying the county this year, choosing instead to put the money into an escrow account rather than pay a tax they felt to be illegal, the officials said.

The suit asks that the treasurers be allowed to withhold the money from the drain commissioner, that they be allowed to look at county books of the drain commissioner's office and that special assessments now in escrow be repaid to citizens. It also asks that the County revolving fund for such taxes not be used to pay administrative costs that should be paid by the county general fund.

A second count is included in the complaint as a class action lawsuit against the drain commissioner and county. Using Boller from Brownstown and Kraft from Riverview as representative defendants, the suit says that they and "members of their class" were required to pay illegal assessments since the Drain Code was originally adopted in 1956.

It requests refunds to all persons who paid special assessments that were charged in violation of the state statute.

Officials estimated that this lawsuit could run into millions of dollars. They reiterated at the meeting that "this is the tip of the iceberg" and only a beginning to the legal action that may happen.

The charge states that some $250,000 in assessed taxes is being held by the communities in escrow, and that the treasurers believe the money should be refunded to citizens of the community.

In other communities, such as Canton Township, the drain assessment is paid out of the general fund, not assessed to the residents directly.

Supervisor Greenstein complained that $20,000 had been paid by Canton to the drain commissioners office in the past three years and "they never did any work."

The seeds of the lawsuit began last summer when Boller and Gollwitzer got together to compare common problems with the drain commissioner.

Gollwitzer said he and treasurer Dorothy York went downtown to the commissioner's office to get information on assessments. They were refused access to information.

He said township officials had refused to pay the bill for the past two years and that now it was "time to take the initiative" in remedying the situation.

Although Gollwitzer and Boller filed affidavits with the Wayne County Board of Commissioners against approval of the tax roll, that legislative body said it was not their job to decide the legality of it.

Commissioner Royce Smith's attempts to get Van Buren and Brownstown's assessments deleted from the tax rolls failed. Since then, the other communities joined in the complaint.

The meeting ended in the signing of the charges by the six treasurers, then turned into a general gripe session against the drain commissioner.

The officials said that they found out that 78 percent of their assessments went to administration when Youngblood's attorney, Chester Pierce, appeared at a public hearing in Canton Township in March.

According to Harry S. Ellman, attorney for the six communities, "Pierce admitted that 78 percent was used for administrative expenses."

Gollwitzer argued with the use of the word "admitted," saying that Pierce "declared it as if it was perfectly all right. He never felt any guilt about anything."

At that public hearing Pierce apparently blamed the county for not giving Youngblood enough money to run his department, and decided to charge assessments to get the money he needed, the officials said.

The representatives of the community proceeded to complain about how difficult it is to communicate with Youngblood's office, saying he refuses to answer questions or return calls to elected officials.

Youngblood is up for re-election this year, and has been challenged by former Romulus mayor Terry L. Troutt for the Democratic nod in the August primary.

Ford seeks passage of federal jobs bill

Congressman William D. Ford (D-15th District) has called on the President to approve a $3.9 billion jobs bill, which would benefit the sagging state economy.

The bill, which would pump more than $100 million into the state, would authorize $2 billion for local works programs during the next 15 months, a project which can be started within 90 days, another $25 billion for "counter-cyclical" grants and $700,000 million for wastewater treatment.

The legislation, a scaled down version of the original $6 billion proposal, may be vetoed by President Gerald Ford.

"I hope the President recognizes that these wide margins (the House voted 328 to 83 and the Senate 70-25 to approve it) or approval indicate widespread support of this bill," the congressman said. "Members of both political parties clearly see the need for federal action to stimulate employment and give the national economy a shot in the arm."

"The 'counter-cyclical' plan is designed specifically for Michigan and other states with higher-than-average unemployment. State and local governments would be eligible for a total of $1.25 billion to assist them in maintaining basic public services under a formula tied to the unemployment rate. The state's current jobless rate is at 10.2 percent, well above the national average of 7.3 percent, according to Ford.

"At this rate, Michigan's state government should receive more than $30,000,000 and another $61,000,000 would be available for use by cities, villages and townships," he added.

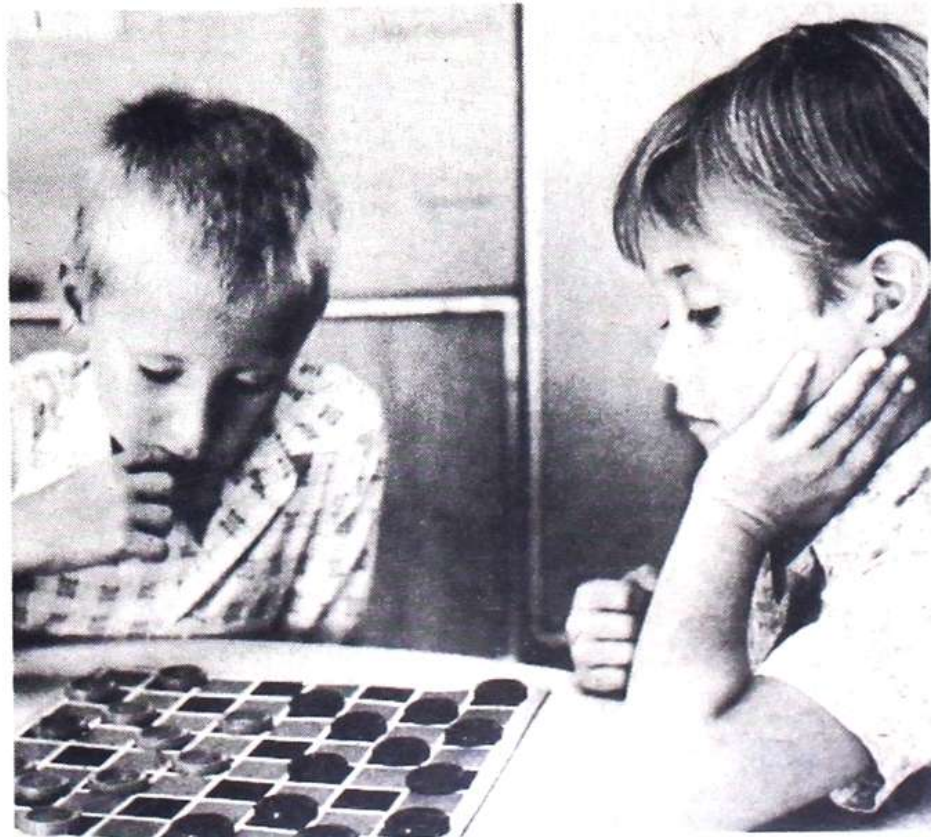

"This portion of the bill will preserve some 90,000 throughout the country at the state and local level and another 20,000 jobs will be created by the public works provision of the bill," he said.

He went on to say that "it is employment that is inflationary."

"In the past 13 months we have spent $35 billion for unemployment compensation, and billions more for welfare, food stamps and other programs to help the unemployed," he added. "In addition we lost $50 billion in federal tax revenues during 1975 and another $27 billion in tax income that the state would have received with normal employment."

"Every percentage point of unemployment costs the federal government $17 billion — $12 billion in lost tax revenues and $5 billion in unemployment benefits and support programs. Unless we take action, the national economy will lose an incredible $1 trillion in economic output during the 6-year period ending in 1980."

"That is why I called on the President to approve our plan and dismiss any thoughts he may have about another veto. It is time to put aside party differences, to look past the 'red herring' of inflation and put this plan to work," he concluded.

Willow Metropark opens rec complex

Sunday will mark the public opening of a new swimming pool-games area recreation complex, constructed at Willow Metropark, located between New Boston and Flat Rock.

The new facilities include an Olympic-sized swimming pool, sun deck, bathroom with heated showers, coin-operated lockers for clothes checking, food service building and patio, 10 shuffleboard, two tennis and four basketball courts and a large tot lot.

Swimming will be "free" on opening day, according to George Giblin, parks superintendent. Charges for the facilities are 25 cents for children ages 12 and under and 50 cents at the pool. State rules prohibit wearing of "cut-offs" in the pool. Clothes checking in coin-operated lockers is 25 cents. Pool hours are 9:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., later on weekends and holidays. Tennis court fees are $1.50 per hour, and shuffleboard, basketball and the tot lot are free.

Several special events to be held on Sunday Dandy the Clown at the Tot Lot at 2 p.m. a square dancers performance in the central plaza at 5 p.m. a fireworks over the central plaza at 9:45 p.m. Boy Scout Troop No. 872 of Romulus will demonstrate Indian Dancers several times during the afternoon.

The Huron-Clinton Metropolitan Authority — serving the citizens of Wayne, Macomb, Oakland, Livingston and Washtenaw counties — has spent more than $4.5 million to develop the 1,500-acre Willow Metropark, including a grant of $1.9 million dollars in State Recreational Bond Program Funds administered by the Department of Natural Resources.

Smith backs open meets

A House bill which would ban secret meetings by public bodies has garnered the support of one Wayne County commissioner.

Commissioner Royce E. Smith of Belleville has come out in support of the measure, saying that "all public boards and agencies should be required to meet openly and discuss problems, while allowing the people an opportunity to observe and react to issues."

"People have a right to know about budgets, spending, salaries and other decisions of this type," he added. "Taxpayers' money often is spent on projects that the public knows little about."

Smith went on to say that public meetings should be conducted with proper notice given to the people, adding that the Board of Commissioners by its rules has opened both the special and regular meetings to the public. "It is only fair to expect that the business of the Legislature should be conducted as openly as the affairs of the Board of Commissioners," he said.

The bill, which has passed the House of Representatives, now returns to the Senate for further consideration and discussion.

'Best' staffers named

The votes have been counted and the results are in on who are the favorite teachers at Belleville South Junior High School.

All students attending the school cast votes for their favorite instructors male and female based on several criteria. They included whether the teacher had favorites in his or her class, was friendly with all students and able to relate to them, had total control of the classroom without being a dictator and taught the class in such a way that students learned and enjoyed it at the same time.

The favorite female teacher turned out to be Regina Mulligan, who teaches physical and earth science. Her male counterpart was Richard Kiessel, an industrial arts teacher.

Utilities plagued by sleazy politics

By HARRY HALL
Former President
Michigan Chamber of Commerce

Sleazy politics continues to plague the hard pressed, over-regulated, investor-owned electric utilities. It is serious enough to have a thoroughly politicized Public Service Commission ignore the reality of all the economic facts in rate cases under the pretense of protecting the consumer. That, of course, is so much unadulterated hokum.

Actually these commissioners are pandering to a few loudmouth politicians, who make careers out of attacking the utilities, and a few self appointed, pseudo-consumer groups in the hope that it will win votes for their respective political sponsors or for themselves when the time comes for one or more of them to make a pitch for elective office.

Now comes a series of recommendations from a majority of the members of the Governors' Advisory Commission on Electric Power Alternatives to put the State of Michigan into the production and sale of electric power. Imagine that! Socialized kilowatts! How such a preposterously nonsensical notion could come from otherwise intelligent individuals should win the prize for the mystery of the decade. I do not mean to question the integrity of the members of this commission. I do mean to disagree vigorously with their puzzling decision.

In my commonsense opinion, the taxpayers and the users would get a scandalous reading that would make previous political shaftings seem pleasant by comparison if the Governor should be some unfortunate circumstance follow this ill-timed advice. Whether the Governor will buy the weird proposal is not known at this time.

When I asked him about the report in May he disguised his intentions with customary political periphrastics by stating, "That report will require a lot of study." When I repeated these remarks to one of the Governor's personal and political supporters he said, "If Bill cannot reject that silly idea in three seconds he must be for it."

He could be. I do not know what he will do. I do not know why he appointed the commission in the first place. After all he did create the commission about a year ago. He selected the chairman, his former Lieutenant Governor, a likeable, sincere and honest enough person who has been on the taxpayers' payroll long enough to probably consider that a divine right by now. The chairman has a compatible working and personal relationship with the Governor. The chief staff member assigned to work with the commission was selected from the Attorney General's office. That gives his views a slant.

It is difficult to imagine the Attorney General assigning anybody to such a commission that would not reflect his own prejudices against the private utilities. Nobody — I mean nobody at all — has been more frantically antiprivate utility than the Attorney General, Frantic Frank himself.

The Governor's executive order mandated that the commission determine the desirability and feasibility of establishing a Michigan Power Authority to engage in the financing, construction and operation of new generating and other facilities. Further it mandated that consideration be given to establishing a program of insurance and guarantees on the state level to bring about lower cost of financing electric utility debt along with other considerations. If he had not been giving consideration to these proposals why was he so specific in his orders?

So what happens? After almost a year of deliberation, meetings galore, expenditures of well over $100,000 of the taxpayers' money (according to a statement by the chairman at a public hearing in Detroit on May 21, 1976) and some fancy parliamentary maneuvering at the decision making session in April, eight members voted to recommend the creation of another bureaucratic structure to be called the Michigan Power Authority. The first vote was seven to six against the proposal. Then after long discussion a second vote was taken. Some shifting of votes occurred for some unexplained reason. The final vote of eight to five favoring the proposal became the majority report.

The powers granted to this new authority are awesome. This body would be appointed by the Governor. The Michigan Power Authority would be autonomous in its operations. It could borrow $1 billion, initially, with the full faith and credit of the state. It could purchase sites and construct a 1,500,000 kilowatt generating plant and sell the power to the private companies in the quantity and at a price determined by the authority with the restriction that the private companies must sell it at the same price, without any profit, and with the further provision that the amount allowed the companies for service and transmission to customers would then be decided by the Public Service Commission.

Also, the Michigan Power Authority would decide what additional facilities would meet growth needs in the future. It would then be allowed to compete with the private companies to build the new facilities. It could decide that economic growth should be restricted and people should curtail use of electricity to meet their own bureaucratized conscience. This new creature of state government would have life and death control over industry, business and private citizens as it relates to use of electrical power because it — and it alone — would decide future needs and future use of available power.

It should be understood by the public that any claims for cheaper power produced by the State are fallacious and full of deception. If rates were made slightly less to create the proper political impression for whoever is in office, the additional costs would be added into the tax bill. The total could be more. The actual charge would be hidden by increased taxes. That is the history of public power.

It should also be understood that this is the most capital intensive of all industries. The capital expenditure for construction of new facilities to meet Michigan's growing needs for electric power is dependent on sale of securities. Internal generation of capital does not have the same rule in the financing of electric utility expansion as it does in most other private industries. In periods of accelerated expansion needs, external sources of investment may reach 70 percent or more, according to utility finance experts.

Due to inflation, uncontrolled cost increases and strictly controlled income, the investor-owned electric utilities have been unable to secure adequate financing for urgently needed facilities to meet present and future needs. Consequently, within the past two years about $6.4 billion in construction has been postponed. A considerable part of the reason for the lack of confidence is because the state regulatory climate is so miserable — one of the worst in the nation. The regulatory climate becomes even worse, with this recommendation to have the state stick its long nose further into the utility business. ore about that later.

Fortunately, this majority report was accompanied by a strongly worded minority report, filed and signed by five members of the commission. It recommends that the Governor "Reject in its entirety the interim report tendered by eight members of the existing Governor's Advisory Commission on Electric Power Alternatives." This will be the subject of the next column.

'Don't call me honey'

By MAUREEN RADEMACHER
Of the Enterprise-Roman Staff

By MAUREEN RADEMACHER
Enterprise-Roman Staff Writer

It happened today, again, for the umpteenth time. And instead of seething inside, blaming you for something you don't even realize you're doing, I'm going to tell you once and for all — don't call me "honey."

Many government officials and community leaders in this area, and most everywhere, are men. Women are beginning to push their way in, but not as rapidly as they might. It will be awhile before there are an equal number of male and female mayors, supervisors and other government administrators.

So in my daily dealings with city government I spend a lot of time talking to men — usually very nice, polite and well-meaning public servants. They rarely refuse to answer my questions, return my calls and give me news stories. They realize that good relationships with the press are essential.

But some — used to talking to female secretaries, clerks and other women employees — too often let slip that demeaning term that continues to be a subtle jab at women's rights.

"I'll call you right back, honey," was the promise I heard today from one local administrator. Since he was busy, I didn't mind that he couldn't talk to me right then. I did mind that he called me "honey."

For years, women from the position of secretary up to the supposedly prestigious jobs have had to tolerate these subtle put-downs as part of their job. It may on the surface be a term of friendliness, but to me it means that the person I'm talking to considers me no more than a sweet little woman, kind of cute but certainly not an equal.

I can hear people now, accusing me of being incredibly thin-skinned, such a little thing to get upset about.

It is a little thing. That is why I have never protested or objected, I get my job done well enough.

But it's all the little things put together, plus all the mammoth things, that make up discrimination.

People have become very aware of calling people chairpersons and council members, and newspaper carriers, taking out the repeated reference to the male sex. These were little things, but hopefully the emphasis on them has created some awareness of the problem.

I'm not just asking that you stop calling me "honey," "sweetie," "dear" and the numerous other terms. I'm talking about your secretary, too, and the bank teller, and the receptionist. Just because our jobs are not as "important" as yours, doesn't mean we aren't persons, too.

And I realize that many times you don't even realize you're saying it. I know you don't consciously decide to say something that is offensive. What could be more friendly than such a term? But somehow, the words manage to put the female in her place.

If we called you "honey," you'd certainly take it with a raised eyebrow, to say the least.

And I can just about guarantee that most men don't call other men, albeit job inferiors, such terms.

So let's call a truce. Try it. Try treating your secretary and the dozens of other female persons you meet, as persons, not as "honeys."

This is fair warning. Or I'll have to start calling you the same thing.

On the Brighter Side

Grass is always greener

By JIM BRADLEY
Pastor, Fair Haven Baptist Church

If you could be anyone else on the face of the earth, who would you choose to be?

Because the grass always seems to look greener on the other side of the fence, many would jump at the chance to trade places with anyone they could. They'd junk their problems and difficulties for the pleasure of being someone else. But would it really be that good of a deal?

I doubt it. The grass only looks greener. Ask anybody. They'll tell you that when you look on the outside, things look completely rosey — but when you get the complete picture it's a different story. Everyone has his troubles.

In my dual capacity as a minister and newspaper columnist, I run across a lot of people. I guess my two "callings" enable me to meet a greater variety of people than just about any other occupations. I count as my personal friends senators, state representatives, mayors, city councilmen, and a host of other equally important people.

One thing is true about every one of them. Amid all the glamour of their profession, there is the heartache of problems and difficulties.

The other day I was invited to lunch by a prominent businessman in the area and we discussed many of the most important issues of the day. During the course of our conversation, he admitted that he drains a bottle of Maalox every so often because of nervous tension and a possible ulcer.

Now here's a likeable, smiling, successful man who has worked his way into a good paying profession and serves in several important community positions.

Many look up to him, and I do, too! But his confession (I'm not exactly sure that's the right word to use) showed that all is not what it seems to be.

Those who look at him every day and see his beaming smile and courteous way do not realize the tension and burdens he carries in his position of responsibility. They simply admire his high position and good salary and aspire to have something similar — not knowing the price he's paid for that position.

Believe me, the grass only looks greener! To those who look longingly at another woman from the shackles of an unsuccessful marriage, think again. She might not look so alluring if you lived with her.

Or do you envy that high-powered new car that left you idling when the redlight changed? Think of the monthly payment and the enormous gas bill. Reminds me of the fellow who purchased a new car and described it: "Power brakes, power steering, power windows...Power payments..."

I've often wondered whether it's worse being a pauper with no money or having money and owing everybody. Only thing worse...I guess... is having no money and owing everybody!

When I carried mail a few years ago (my feet still remember), I recall walking up to a grand $50,000 house (probably worth $100,000 today). The owner, who was quite elderly, was manicuring the beautiful lawn and trimming the gorgeous shrubs. As I casually handed him a fistful of junk mail, I remarked: "It must be nice living in such a large, expensive house — and having a lot of money."

He stroked his gray hair and answered, "Don't kid yourself. I worked 18 hours a day, seven days a week to buy this house and now I'm too worn out to enjoy it. In working myself to death's doorstep, I've lost all the enthusiasm I thought I'd have in owning this fine home."

To those driving by that huge home with sprawling green lawn, it was an object to be desired. To the man who destroyed his health in obtaining it, it was an object of frustration.

The grass only looks greener. For many people "Tomorrow" is always looking greener. They have great plans for tomorrow — but today is the only time we have for sure. Someone has well said: "Yesterday is like money we've already spent and tomorrow is money only promised. Today is all we have to spend."

Amid your troubles, trials and temptations, remember one thing. Things are not always what they seem. The grass may look greener on the other side of the fence.

But once you climb over that fence to view it up close, you may look back and see that your grass is a lot greener than you thought it was.

Federal hiring abuses must end

The United States Civil Service Commission oversees the operation of the merit system on behalf of some 2.8 million federal workers. But for the past couple of years, the news media has reported many instances of widespread political influence in the federal civil service.

Last October, while under the glare of public pressure, the U.S. Civil Service Commission (CSC) appointed a Merit Staffing Review Team to lead an investigation of federal employment practices. A recently released report, titled "A Self-Inquiry into Merit Staffing," predictably offers an in-depth study of rampant abuses which have occurred in federal recruitment and examination procedures.

The (CSC) press release announcing the results says the report "describes instances of staffing authorities and procedures that facilitated the granting of preferential treatment to individuals, spotlights systemic shortcomings that were subject to misuse by both the CSC and agencies, and addresses weaknesses in our enforcement policies."

Among other findings, the review team discovered manipulation in mid-level and senior-level examinations, preferential treatment for favored candidates, active lobbying efforts by CSC officials on behalf of specific individuals, lack of adequate response by the CSC to indications of political interference.

One of the supposed benefits of public employment have been the alleged protections of "merit hiring," "merit promotions" and "merit pay raises." The lessons of the CSC scandal report should not be lost to state and local public employees: any labor system operated by politicians can easily be subverted by politicians.

To the doubters we offer the CSC's own admission that "there can be no question that things happened which should not have happened." Until the collective bargaining principle is universally adopted in the public sector, we believe things will continue to happen which never should have happened.

Poetry Corner

Written in loving tribute to Mrs. Rebecca Florence Henry, our friend and fellow member of the Belleville Senior Citizens Club, who died on June 13, 1976.

REMEMBERING OUR DEAR REBA

A gentle heart and ready smile,
A lady without a trace of guile,
All that she asked was a listening ear
For dearest life memories to share.

Ready to always lend a hand—
Be it our prayer-time or the band;
Senior citizens all were sure
The club could always depend on her.

Offering admiration now,
Tribute of praise upon her brow,
We would this ode of praise bestow
Because so many loved her so!

DON'T PUT IT OFF

If you would a kind word say,
Say it today!
Lay a wreath upon some brow?
Place it now!
Hours grow shorter as you plod,
Those sure steps that lead to God;
All the good that you would do
Rests with you.

Do you hear a lonely sigh?
Heed that cry.
Someone near you needs a shove?
Share some love.
You cannot retrace your steps;

Don't end life with vain regrets.
Share day's blessings with some friends
Before day ends.

Republican chances fading

By PATRICK J. BUCHANAN
New York Times News Service

WASHINGTON — Ahead in delegates, diligently working the state conventions to pick up the margins needed for victory at Kansas City, Gerald R. Ford is making the case that, with himself at the top of the ticket, Republicans, generally, would be better off in the fall.

Ford has an argument. In the liberal provinces, certainly that is true. But it is about the only argument left left for the President's nomination. Unquestionably, for example, a ticket with Ford at the top would run stronger in nearby Montgomery County, enhancing slightly the G.O.P.'s chance of retaining the congressional seat of retiring liberal Gilbert Gude.

But packing Newton Stears off to the 95th Congress from the Maryland suburbs is not what the political conflict of 1976 is all about. The Republican objective this fall should be first to retain the White House for the Republican Party.

Measured by that yardstick, the arguments for a Ford candidacy have almost disappeared. Where is the scenario for a Ford victory this fall? Where is the map showing the states with the 270 electoral votes

Ford must have to win? Where is the theme of a Ford campaign to inspire and rally a nation?

While Ronald Reagan, like Ford, would be an underdog candidate for the presidency, there is a chance that with him at the top of the ticket, the Republicans can muster a narrow electoral majority in the fall.

Consider the "must" states for the G.O.P. in 1976.

They include, first, the plains and mountain states where Reagan routed the President two-and three-to-one; and California, where Reagan defeated the President by about 740,000 Republican votes.

They include the border states and Florida, where the President and Reagan roughly split the vote; and the Deep South and Texas where Reagan again rolled up margins of two-to-one. To take the South away from regional favorite son Jimmy Carter, the Republican candidate must carry some of the Wallace people with him. Which of the two, Reagan or Ford, is best equipped to manage that?

In Ford's favor it can be argued that he would be stronger in the swing states of Ohio, Illinois, Michigan, and New Jersey.

Panax Opinions

Perhaps. But of what value the swing states, if you have already surrendered your Republican base to James Earl Carter?

The Republican establishment, pacing nervously about the bridge of Mr. Morton's Titanic, is staying with the ship not because Ford has the best chance of securing the presidency, but because he offers the best hope of saving themselves. But they have forgotten the lesson of 1972. Coattails have almost vanished. The Republican landslide against George McGovern had only a marginal impact upon the composition of the 93rd Congress.

Even the Ford partisans will concede. Reagan is the superior campaigner, that the former governor of California is the only Republican who can exploit the rising sentiment in the country against this capital city.

Whatever mistakes Reagan and his men have made, they did not bull their way into Ford's home state and run bonehead commercials calling him a warmonger, as the Ford men did in the California primary. Reagan has shown he can get up off the canvas after knockdowns in New Hampshire, Florida and Illinois; the Reagan of June, 1976, is a more confident campaigner and savvy candidate than the Reagan of January, 1976.

Nomination of either candidate would cause, as surveys show, defections to Jimmy Carter in the fall. But Ford's candidacy would trigger a third-party run on the right, the objective of which would be to send that final torpedo into the Titanic, if it was yet afloat.

Let us face facts. The hour is at hand when the Republicans, conservatives and liberals, should gather together in the halls of their fathers' mansions for a final farewell dinner, and depart their separate ways.

Republican conservatives will never support a "Mac" Mathias for president. Republican "progressives" will take a two-month siesta if Ronald Reagan is the nominee.

Ergo, every four years,

Republicans to remain together must unite behind moderates and centrists, the lead item on whose political agenda is too often simply divvying up the power, perks, and privileges that go with control of the executive branch of the government of the United States.

Better this fall for the Republicans to go down battling the seedy liberalism of this capital city than to sink slowly beneath the waves, flying the bloodless banner of "Peace, Prosperity, and Trust."

The coronation of King Carter

By JEFFREY ST. JOHN
Copley News Service

WASHINGTON — "With a sincere conviction of his own right," observed the historian Mark K. Boatner III, "and an inflexible tenacity of purpose, George III pursued his policy of coercion while remaining deaf to advice that he lacked the means of carrying it through."

The more you listen to former Georgia Governor Jimmy Carter, the more his posture resembles that of Britain's George III, from whom we declared our independence 200 years ago on July 4, 1776. In fact, more and more members of the media have taken to describing the Democratic convention in New York and assured nomination of Carter following the July 4th holiday as a "coronation."

Carter, indeed, has an imperial air, not accustomed to having his views or wishes questioned or crossed. Like monarchs of the past, King Carter shows a steeling interior despite his soft Southern exterior. His mother testifies that

James (Jimmy) I never forgets or forgives those who cross a Carter.

Carter's use of the religious issue to corral "the Christian vote," which is just about everyone, evokes the long dead and buried doctrine of "Divine Rights of Kings" when monarchs like James I, George III of England and Louis XVI ruled in the belief that God had ordained them to reign. Carter doesn't say this, but the impression he leaves is that all he needs is the power of government and the guiding light of God and all the problems facing our society will be dissolved into what Carter calls "A New America."

Historian Boatner's observation about King George's sincere sense of moral right, tenacity, and refusal to see he lacked the means to accomplish his ends can also be applied to Carter's plans for reorganizing the federal government. Repeatedly, Carter has pledged to make this his first priority in his first year as president. Yet, anyone familiar with the federal bureaucracy knows that the entrenched thousands will fight any and all attempts to abolish or consolidate the empires that make up the bureaucracy that has been built in Washington since the Franklin Roosevelt New Deal.

Here Carter bears a striking resemblance to FDR, the last man the Democrats nominated who came closest to talking and acting like a king. John F. Kennedy, whom Carter says he will emulate in some ways, was a prince of the realm rather than a full fledged king. Carter's political style bears a striking resemblance to FDR, more than Kennedy. One wonders whether Carter is unconsciously emulating FDR since the late president spent much time at Warm Springs, Georgia, and died there of a stroke in 1945 — Carter's hometown is only a short distance from Warm Springs! In a speech prior to his coronation, Carter told a majors' conference in Milwaukee that public works projects like the ones initiated by FDR in the 1930s might be considered for urban America.

elected, they will represent a massive capacity to take the country far beyond the New Deal, New Frontier, and Great Society to a position that the New Left members of the Democratic Party want.

Carter, in short, will doubtlessly demand and will be able to get the massive unaccountable government power — which has produced the scandals, waste, and corruption of recent years!

California legislature big spenders

By BOB BERG
Panax Lansing Bureau Chief

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Memo to Michigan taxpayers: It could be worse.

Much has been written in recent years about the free spending ways of the Michigan Legislature. The Senate spent about $1.5 million remodeling its offices a couple of years ago and another $250,000 or so last year to satisfy the tastes of Democrats who had taken over from Republicans.

But it must be confessed after a visit here those Michigan guys are pikers in comparison to California's lawmakers.

The Capitol here is in the midst of a renovation budgeted to cost $43.2 million and expected to end up more than that. They are pretty much gutting the old Capitol after a couple engineering reports said it wasn't earthquake proof.

The original report was unearthed by the dean of the Legislature, Sen. Randolph Collier, back when he was pushing a $100 million office complex for the Legislature. His plan was hooted down by the press and the public, but the state had a report that said it would be liable if an earthquake happened and people were hurt or killed in the Capitol.

Thus, the total renovation intended to put the Capitol back in pretty much the same way it was built 105 years ago. A temporary addition has been built to house the Legislature and some offices in the remodeling and the Capitol itself is now fenced off and pretty much gutted.

California legislators live better in other ways, as well.

Their pay, $21,120 a year, is $2,120 more than Michigan.

Their living expense allowance averages $6,000 a year — double what Michigan lawmakers are allowed.

They get $220 a month from the state to lease a car for themselves — our lawmakers get a mileage allowance for one trip home a week and that's it.

Each senator has a minimum staff of eight people — double what ours get — and each House member gets at least four staff people — again double. Additional staff come with seniority and with committee chairmanships.

In addition, the offices are much more elaborate than those found in Lansing. The lieutenant governor's office makes Gov. William G. Milliken's office pale by comparison. The speaker's office, located on a marbled corridor with plush carpeting, new, modern furniture and recessed lighting, makes Michigan Speaker Bobby Crim's office look like a WPA project with its prison industries furniture.

That isn't to hint all of Michigan's legislators — particularly in the Senate — have been models of propriety with their spending. They haven't. And it isn't to say larger staffs are a waste of money, since the more research that can be done on an issue, the better the final product should be.

What it says is that they aren't alone, or even the most extreme, in their desire to spend taxpayers money on themselves.

What it says is, it could be worse.

Here we come to the heart of Carter's political style and appeal. He advocates political ideas and program ranging from the New Deal, through Truman's Fair Deal, to the Kennedy New Frontier and Johnson Great Society and the New Left. Behind every one of these eras in American politics has been the constant impulse of federal power that has created the problems Carter pledges to resolve. If, therefore, the Democratic Party maintains its control of both houses of Congress in 1977 and Carter is

Eileen Heath is June bride

MR. AND MRS. THOMAS L. SEFCOVIC

Two May graduates of the University of Michigan (U-M), Eileen Elizabeth Heath of Belleville and Thomas Lawrence Sefcovic of Rochester, were united in marriage June 11 at Berean Baptist Church in Belleville.

Following their wedding reception at the Knights of Columbus Hall in Wayne, the newlyweds departed for a week-long honeymoon at Crystal Lake near Beulah, Mich.

Double ring vows were exchanged before The Rev. Franklin Miller and some 125 assembled relatives and friends. For the 6:30 p.m. rite, the altar was appointed with candles and a single yellow candle set in a cloud of baby's breath.

Music for the ceremony included a woodwind trio comprised of Mark Romatz, Brad Wong and Mae Weeks; vocals by Rose Dunaway and piano music by Jim Schweigert.

Parents of the young couple are Mr. and Mrs. John Heath of 45963 Ecorse Rd., Belleville, and Mr. and Mrs. Methodius Sefcovic of 950 Bloomer, Rochester.

Escorted to the altar by her father, the bride appeared in a creation of white organza designed with clear bishop sleeves, a lifted bodice and illusion neckline with scalloped chantilace forming a stand-up collar. The same lace was used as accents on the dress and to band the bride's long veil which was caught to a matching cap.

Yellow sweetheart roses, white daisies and baby's breath comprised the bridal bouquet which was made in the shape of a cross.

Carrying a similarly formed bouquet of three yellow sweetheart roses and greenery for her role as maid of honor was the bride's sister, Trudy Heath of Belleville. She was distinguished by her solid yellow rayon chiffon gown which featured a flounced hemline, V-neck and ruffled cape sleeves.

Attendants in identical frocks of yellow and green print dacron and yellow milady hats were another sister, Jo Ann Heath of Belleville; a cousin, Irene Curtis Woodbury of Belleville; the bridegroom's sister, Mrs. Janet Tremper of Ypsilanti, and a close friend, Mrs. Patricia Morris of Blytheville, Ark.

Six-year old Wendy Woodbury, the daughter of the Steve Woodburys of Belleville, was flowergirl at her cousin's wedding. She, too, donned a yellow and green dacron print dress like that worn by the bridesmaids. She had yellow ribbons and baby's breath in her hair and carried a basket filled with white daisies.

The bridegroom asked his brother, John Sefcovic of Rochester, to be best man. Groomsmen were Dave Sefcovic of Virginia, Minn., another brother; Dave Hall of Rochester; Dave Salisbury of Belleville; Bruce Ludd of Livonia; Charles Garrett of Dearborn and Paul Goodman of St. Joseph.

Mrs. Heath chose for her daughter's wedding a floor-length halter style gown in pale blue organza while the bridegroom's mother donned a formal turquoise knit gown. Both were presented with corsages of yellow roses and white daisies.

The new Mrs. Sefcovic, a 1972 graduate of Belleville High School, holds a degree in music education.

from U-M where she was a member of Tau Beta Sigma.

Her husband is a 1972 alumnus of Rochester High School who earned his degree in music performance at U-M. He plans to do graduate work at the Manhattan School of Music in New York City starting in September. At the present time he is a member of the Toledo Symphony Orchestra in Toledo, Ohio.

The bridegroom's parents played host at the rehearsal dinner held at the Cock and Bull Restaurant in Ypsilanti.

At Baptist church

Couple wed in Eaton Rapids

The First Baptist Church in Eaton Rapids was the setting for the recent ceremony which united Connie Jo Burkholder and Randy William Harris in holy matrimony.

The Rev. Larry Messer and The Rev. Jerry Wichert, brothers-in-law of the bride, presided at the May 15 marriage at 3 p.m. For the double ring rite, two garden baskets filled with blue daisies, roses and carnations adorned the altar along with a unity candle.

The bride's sister, Mrs. Jerry Wichert, was organist for the occasion and Dave Daku the soloist.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Burkholder of Eaton Rapids, the bride was given in marriage by her parents.

For her wedding day, Connie selected an old-fashioned gown of sata peau and venise lace. The bodice was designed with bishop sleeves of alternating lace and sheer fabric, matching lace forming a V from shoulder to the high-rise waistline. A small oval of fine needlepoint on illusion was used as an insert below the high lace neckline. The toe-touching gown extended into a lace-trimmed chapel train.

Her candlelight veil of silk illusion cascaded from a little lace cap and was borrowed from her sister, Mrs. Donna Messer. Completing her bridal finery was a colonial bouquet of blue daisies, white roses and baby's breath.

Two of the bride's sisters, Joyce Burkholder of Eaton Rapids and Mrs. Donna Messer of Grand Rapids, served as maid of honor and bridesmaid with the bridegroom's sister, Janna Harris of Belleville, as the third attendant.

They appeared in identical old-fashioned Bicentennial dresses made of a blue flowered pattern on ivory. The empire gowns were accented with lace at the collars, sleeves, bodices and skirts. They wore picture hats trimmed with blue ribbon and carried garden baskets of roses and blue daisies.

Four-year old Kimberly Wichert was her aunt's flowergirl in a miniature version of the senior attendants' frocks. Mark Messer, the bride's 5-year-old nephew, carried out the duties of ringbearer. The bridegroom, the son of Mr.

and Mrs. James Harris Jr. of Belleville, asked Lee Brown of Fairview to be his best man. Ushers were Jeff Messer of Grand Rapids, brother-in-law of the bride, and Lonnie Ainsley of Belleville, cousin of the bridegroom.

The bride's mother received the 250 guests in a 3-piece ice blue knit floor-length ensemble. Her corsage was comprised of coral sweetheart roses. Mrs. Harris chose for her son's wedding a pink polyester knit jacket-dress to which she added her corsage of pink sweetheart roses.

At the reception which followed in the church, the bride's sister, Mrs. Judy Messer, cut and served the wedding cake.

Following their 2-week honeymoon in Florida, the young couple took up residence at Camp Barakel in Fairview where they are employed as home missionaries.

Leach-Ray marry

Rainbow gowns featured at wedding

In a candlelight ceremony June 19, Cheryl Ann Ray and Richard Elwood Leach exchanged wedding vows and rings. The Rev. Daniel Richert conducted the 6:30 p.m. rite before some 125 relatives and friends with Mrs. Richert providing organ music for the occasion.

Two stands of yellow gladiolas and white carnations graced the sanctuary as Cheryl approached on the arm of her father, Franklin D. Ray of 20680 Karr Rd., Belleville. Her mother is Ms. Ann Ray of 600 Sumpter Rd., Belleville.

The bride carried a colonial bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, white daisies and baby's breath to contrast with her white Chantilly lace gown. Styling details on the dress included a deep scooped ruffled neckline, long fitted sleeves which terminated in ruffles at the wrist and a bouffant skirt comprised of tiers of lace fanning out from the front insert which was an inverted V.

Her mantilla veil of silk illusion, banded in matching lace, drifted to chapel length as she walked.

Rainbow colors were chosen for the bride's four attendants. The maid of honor, Cherie Lynn Smith of Belleville, wore pink; Ruth Sears of Belleville was in blue and the bride's two sisters, Margie Ann and Shirley Ann Ray, were in green and yellow, respectively.

Patterned in identical style, the dresses featured deep V necklines with floral appliques forming high-rise bodices. The polyester knit frocks were made with cape sleeves which cascaded to three-quarter capes at the back. They each wore a soft-brimmed picture hat to match their dresses and carried cascade bouquets of carnations in harmonizing colors.

Georgina Ann Ray, the bride's 8-year-old sister, donned a long dress of apricot organza over taffeta for her role as flowergirl. With her hoop-skirted gown she wore a floral, streamered headpiece and carried a white basket filled with flowers in the same colors as the attendants' outfits.

The son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Dean Leach of 31 Carmell, Belleville, the bridegroom asked James D. Brewer of Milan to serve as best man. Others on the esquire side were Jeffrey Schroeder Randy Schultz and Steve Doemer, all of Belleville.

At the reception which followed at the PNA Hall, the 250 guests were greeted by Ms. Ray in a pale aqua chiffon gown worn with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations and baby's breath. The bridegroom's mother chose to wear a powder blue qiana gown accented with silver accessories.

The newlyweds later departed for a 10-day motor trip which took them to Niagara Falls, the states of New York, Pennsylvania, W. Virginia, Kentucky and Ohio, as well as to Michigan's Upper Peninsula and Tahquamenon Falls.

Until the bridegroom leaves for boot camp at Great Lakes Naval Training Center on July 20, the young couple will make their home at 48772 Sully Drive. His bride will join him when he is transferred to Memphis, Tenn.

Both young people are 1976 graduates of Belleville High School. Cheryl is employed at Washtenaw County Department of Social Services in Ann Arbor and her husband is an employee of K-Mart Automotive in Belleville.

Suburban Dems enlist GOP to stop bill

By Bob BERG
Panax Lansing Bureau Chief

The pleading, trading and arm-twisting was intense in the Legislature's closing days as suburban Democrats enlisted outside Republicans to overcome former House Speaker William Ryan's efforts to steer a metropolitan area mass transit bill through the State House.

With Ryan labelling the opposition purely anti-Detroit—and citing the need for quick action—trying to win support for a variety of local funding mechanisms, representatives from suburban districts in the tri-county area were matching his lobbying blow for blow.

"We've been telling representatives from outside the Detroit area that if this bill passed, it would just be a foot in the door for similar projects funded by unfair taxes in other metropolitan areas in the state later," said Rep. Joyce Symons, (D-Alpen Park).

Mrs. Symons and Rep. Gilbert DiNello, (D-East Detroit), organized a meeting last week of 15 suburban legislators to discuss the bill.

Everyone attending agreed every version of the proposal's method for collecting the necessary $12.5 million in taxes to bring in some $500 million in federal matching funds was inequitable, they said.

So, in the few days remaining before the July 2 votes that, at least temporarily, have killed the plan, the core group began lobbying with outside legislators not directly affected by the bill.

They said the bill would come back to haunt the outstates later, passed out copies of a newspaper article critical of subways, and-by DiNello's admission—traded their future support of other legislators' pet bills for immediate no votes on the transit legislation.

At the same time, influential lobbyists for the highway and real estate interests urged either rejection or vast modification of the bill, since they were upset with its funding plans.

That combination proved too much for Ryan (D-Detroit) on the two pivotal votes last Friday, even though Ryan—who must often win his fights—was working at least as hard to drum up support from outside Detroit.

First, a substitute for one version, earlier approved by the Senate, was clobbered, 65-28. That substitute, pushed by Ryan's urban affairs committee, would have raised the necessary "seed" money on the combination of a $6 tax surcharge on automobile title transfers and a doubling of the property transfer tax.

Then, the Senate bill was rebuffed, 49-46, on a motion to close it to amendments and ready it for passage.

Under the Senate approach, all the local match money would have come on a $4 surcharge on yearly auto license plate purchases throughout a 7-county southeast Michigan area. That was a wider base than Ryan's 3-county approach and also more acceptable to the real estate lobby.

"When they took that action (the second vote), they proved they're just against anything that's in a city called Detroit," Ryan fumed after the vote.

Although DiNello conceded he and some other suburban legislators aren't terribly enthusiastic about mass transit in general, the suburban bloc's main gripe was the bill's focus on helping Detroit first, the suburbs second, but taxing everyone right from the start.

Another connected problem has been the makeup of the Southeast Michigan Transit Authority (SEMTA) board. The Senate version increased the suburbs' power at Detroit's expense, while Ryan's also-defeated substitute reasserted Detroit's hegemony.

It is SEMTA which would devise the actual transit programs in connection with the federal government, choose what types of vehicles to use and over what routes they would travel.

Ryan and other backers of the bill, also supported in concept by Gov. William Milliken, maintained throughout last week's debate that failure to act then may well mean the federal money never will be available, since it is being handed out to urban areas on a first-come, first-serve basis.

However, their suburban opponents resented the rushed treatment of the bill and said they were not convinced the money will be gone when the House reconvenes in September.

Rep. Symons said she wants a legislative study of fairer ways to fund mass transit, but added she has no plans to make such a suggestion formally.

Even if she did, it's all just anti-Detroit stalling, said Ryan, dejected after one of the biggest losses of his career but unwilling to rule out a renewed fight next fall.

"But at the least, Michigan's image to the federal government now is downgraded," Ryan said. "And when they (the federal government) have the entire country to think about, that isn't going to help us get the money."

AUTO FACTS

By Chester Kosin

History's first self-propelled vehicle was a steam tractor designed and built in 1769 by Captain Nicholas Cugnot of the French Army. A copper boiler in front was heated by an internal fire pot and transmitted steam through a pipe at the top to a pair of cylinders. In a lot of other ways the vehicle was clumsy and inefficient. It had to stop every 100 yards to get up steam again. In 1770, this vehicle came to a bad end by running off the road and hitting a stone wall. The French War Ministry ordered Cugnot to cease work on such inventions.

Codes hamper planning

Wayne County Commissioner Richard E. Manning has requested the assistance of Detroit Mayor Coleman Young and Gov. William Milliken in helping the county extricate itself "from the mess of conflicting State, city and Corrections Commission" rules covering the construction of new jails.

"We have been frustrated at every turn by conflicting regulations, court interpretation, mandates, advisory opinions, engineering assumption and architects' opinions until we feel that we are engaged in the second construction of the Tower of Babel," Manning said.

In a communication to Young and Milliken, Manning said: "The Board of Commissioners, which has received schematic drawings from the design engineers, learned in an advisory opinion that present jail plans do not meet the requirements of the Detroit Building Code."

According to the commissioner, the plans do not meet the code's requirements relative to the sleeping room size, window placement, fire exits and other conditions applicable to building used by the public "in non-jail situations".

"Our engineers have been following the applicable code promulgated by the State of Michigan Corrections Commission relative to 'Jail Housing Requirements,'" he told the two officials. "The necessity to now redesign to meet what appear to be impossible conditions may not only delay the completion of the new jail, but escalate the cost beyond our new millage income."

Village Players revive 'American Cousin'

The Greenfield Village Players have revived the celebrated early American comedy, "Our American Cousin," on stage at the Henry Ford Museum Theater this summer.

First performed at the Laura Keane Theater in New York City in 1858, the Players will present the production at 8:30 p.m. Fridays and Saturdays through Sept. 4.

The theme of the play is typical of theatrical productions of that date when audiences were "delighted in watching homespun, but nonetheless wise, Yankee farmer manage to outwit his foppish European counterpart," a museum spokesman said.

This 19th century farce depicts the adventures of one such Yankee-Asa Trenchard—abroad on a visit to the home of his English cousin. Trenchard's typical outspokenness not only shatters the quiet of the countryside but manages to upset the smooth decorum of the English drawing as well. However, his building awkwardness eventually works to his advantage, and he succeeds in defeating the deeds of an oily English villain, stitute.

A comedy, which continued to be popular to theatergoers for several decades after its first appearance, it is believed to have been a favorite of President Abraham Lincoln. It was while watching this play at Ford Theater in Washington, D.C. that the President was assassinated.

The Village Players revived "Cousin" for today's audiences several times in the 1960s and again in 1970.

In keeping with the theatrical traditions of early America, the cast will serenade audience members in the torchlit courtyard during intermission. The actors and actresses then will lead the audience back into the museum theater for the second act.

All seats for the play performances are reserved and can be purchased in advance by writing Joseph French, Theater Art Department, Greenfield Village, Dearborn 48121. The tickets cost $2.50 per person. Checks should be made payable to the Edison Institute.

Tickets also can be obtained on the evening of performances at the theater box office.

A combination package, which includes dinner in the museum's Heritage Hall Restaurant and theater tickets, also is available on some evenings for groups, individuals and families.

Rivers trace life of Indians

The Shiawassee, Flint, Cass and Saginaw rivers travel a territory where Indian villages, trading posts and logging camps once dotted the riverbanks. And today's canoeist who traces these rivers will see farm, city and industrial development flanked by wilderness areas plus historical sites reminiscent of a by-gone era.

The Shiawassee is the most popular canoeing stream of the four rivers and is the only one with canoe rental, delivery and pickup services.

Starting at Holly in Oakland County, the Shiawassee meanders 65 miles through the rolling farmland of Genesee and Shiawassee counties into Saginaw County where it meets the Saginaw River.

Borrow's Canoe Livery in Bancroft, west of Flint, offers trips ranging from three to seven hours with put-ins upstream at Byron, Lehigh Road, west of Byron Road and Cole Road, west of Durand Road.

Knaggs Bridge on Cole Road marks the site of the Knaggs Trading Post, built in 1820, and the Indian village which white settlers called Big Salt Lick.

Three trips downstream from Dick's Canoe Livery in Corunna also are designed for beginners and offer special attractions. A favorite is the 2-hour, 3-mile trip to Green Meadow Park in Owosso which also can be biked or hiked via riverside path.

In Owosso, Curwood Castle sits on the riverbank on John Street. Camera bugs will want to photograph this castle workshop where author James Oliver Curwood wrote stories about Michigan's and Canada's north country.

Other points of interest in Owosso include the birthplace of Thomas Dewey, presidential candidate and New York governor, and an original settler cabin at one of the city parks.

A 4-hour trip from Corunna to Henderson continues past the homes of Owosso, goes through rolling countryside and ends at the county park.

Those electing the daylong trip from Corunna will end up at Chesaning Park where this year the famous Showboat Attraction will be held Monday through July 17.

Due to numerous rocky riffles, the best time to canoe the Shiawassee below Owosso is early in the season or after a rainfall when water is high.

The Flint River was named

Pawanunking or "river of flint" by the Indians because of its rocky bed. The first trading post along the river was established in 1819 and eventually become the City of Flint.

Experienced canoeists who want to paddle through Flint will pass by residential and industrial sections, four city parks and the downtown business district.

However, recreational canoeing is best east of Flint from Columbiaville to Mott Lake. This 20-mile trip takes one to two days and requires portaging at Holloway Dam. Six miles of the stream glide along very wooded, wilderness-like land with no buildings in sight.

West of Flint, Indian burial grounds at Flushing mark the location along the river of an Indian battle. A county park at Flushing accommodates picnickers.

Two state games areas, interesting small towns and some of Michigan's richest agricultural land attract canoeists to the 50-mile long Cass River in Tuscola and Saginaw counties.

The river and its starting point, Cass City, were named for Gen. Lewis Cass, Michigan's territorial governor from 1813 to 1831. Both Cass City and Caro, the next town downstream, began as logging camps in the 1830s.

Canoeists will have many opportunities to see wildlife while passing through the hundreds of acres of woodlands in the Deford and Vassar State Game Areas.

Further downstream is Frankenth, the Bavarian village famous for chicken dinners, the Glockenspiel, breweries and quaint shops. Visitors also can see the reconstructed 1845 log cabin used as a parsonage, church and school and the Chippewa Indian cemetery—both west of town near the river.

Unlike its quiet tributaries and converging streams, the Saginaw River serves as a commercial shipping thoroughfare for the industry lining its banks.

Although the Saginaw is not usually thought of as a canoeing river, expert paddlers may want to try the 1- to 2-day-long trips through the cities of Saginaw and Bay City into Saginaw Bay. Picnickers will want to stop at Veterans Memorial Park on the east bank of the river between Bay City and Saginaw.

Of Bicentennial interest in Bay City are American historical murals on many buildings in the business district.

USDA sets new poverty guide

The U.S. Department of Agriculture has set up new income poverty guidelines for determining the eligibility for free and reduced-price meals and free milk under its child nutrition programs.

The guidelines apply to schools and institutions which participate in the National School Lunch and Breakfast programs.

Child Care Food Program and Special Milk Program, or receive federally donated foods.

The guidelines increase income eligibility by about 14 percent over last year. The increase reflects the rise in the Consumer Price Index from 1974 through April of this year.

Under the new guidelines, a family of four will be eligible for the programs if its base income is $5,700, up from $5,010.

Based on the national guidelines, the State Department of Education will issue requirements to determine whether or not children are eligible for free or reduced-price meals or milk.

The cut-off level for income determining eligibility must be set by the state at 95 percent above the national income poverty guidelines. However, in establishing the eligibility standards for free meals and milk, the state has the option of placing the cut-off level at up to 25 percent above the national guidelines.

Under that system the state's guides could run from $7,130 at the 25 percent level to $11,110 at the 95 percent cut-off for a family of four.

Income poverty guidelines take into account both family size and income before deductions for income tax, insurance premiums and other expenses.

In using the guidelines, school food authorities can consider the family's income during the past 12 months and the current rate of income to determine a better indicator of need for free or reduced-price meals and free milk.

When judging a family's income level, local administrators also can allow for specified hardship situations, such as unusually high medical expenses; housing costs which exceed 30 percent of income; special education expenses due to a child's physical or mental condition, and disaster or casualty losses.

The new federal guidelines will run through June 30, 1977.

Juchartz to serve 3rd term on county planners panel

The director of the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service has been re-appointed to his third consecutive term on the Wayne County Planning Commission. Donald D. Juchartz will serve another three years on that body.

The 11-member commission directs the development and improvement of county-owned lands and facilities. It also reviews planning programs initiated by local municipalities whenever federal funds are involved.

By law, the commission must reflect various segments of the total community, such as labor, industry, recreation and education.

Juchartz, who is director of the county cooperative extension service, said the commission does not follow the traditional role of "drawing maps" as its ultimate planning goal, but seeks to "improve the quality of life, to save essential assets in each community that never can again be replaced."

Juchartz cited three primary mandates of the commission:

—To review all local applications for federal grants, which he said have been adding up to $1-1/2 billion each year.

—To review all requests for rezoning in unincorporated portions of Wayne County (all townships and villages).

—To insure that zoning and land use plans are in harmony, so that neighboring communities will not plan conflicting developments next door to each other.

"Essentially, we try to put everything into a total county context," he explained. "We plan, advise, encourage, arbitrate, oversee — and push for those things that will make a better environment for all. One thing's for sure. We're not a rubber stamp agency. We look at all sides and we've got broad representation to come up with impartial decisions."

Whitemore Mademoiselle, a 4-year-old Morgan mare, received top honors at the Gold Cup All-Morgan Horse Show in Columbus, Ohio. Owned by Sid and Sharon Wells of Wayne, the Michigan-bred mare placed first in the 4-year-old mares in-hand; junior English Pleasure, Amateur English Pleasure and Amateur Pleasure Driving. Mademoiselle went on to win the Junior English Pleasure Championship and Junior Pleasure Championship. The Gold Cup is the regional all-Morgan show held annually the second weekend in June.

Westland title express rolls

Westland Sporting Goods' bats came alive last week as the league-leaders buried Glass Crutch Lounge 32-2 and Feister Oil 16-9 to build up their title stock in the Westland Parks and Recreation's men's major softball league.

Winning pitcher Bob Killingbeck scattered nine hits, including home runs to Ray Brewer and Charley Riffle. Both players also collected singles.

Meanwhile, Westland Sports replied with a 33-hit barrage which included Jack Westerlund's pair of homers and Killingbeck's three-for-four performance at the plate. The pitcher also drilled a homer.

The Westlanders received five hits from Tim Abramski and got three singles from Jim Johnson.

Scoring seven times in the third inning, Westland Sports had no problem with Feister Oil. Losing pitcher Jerry Taylor was tagged for 19 hits and his nemesis was Phil Raney who watched on to two homers and a single - good for five runs batted in.

Westerlund again homered and singled, accounting for five RBI's. Teammates Abramski and Don Chute counted for and two singles, respectively.

Robert Carr and Rick Wolfe split six of the nine Feister hits. Mate Guy

Sports

Burke drilled a pair of round-trippers.

Westland struck for 20 runs in the final three innings to overpower The Dirty Dozen 29-6 in their confrontation. Pilarski gave up 11 hits to the losers who received three each from Bob Taylor, Ken Jones and Rich Deedler.

Deedler had the only home run for the losers.

Three batters - Dave Wyrabkiewicz, Bill Robitaille and Pilarski hammered homers for the winners. Robitaille, who had four hits for the evening, also counted six RBI's.

In other Class A action, Studio Lounge battered the Silver Bar

Bullets 17-2 as Rich Reynolds collected four of the 23 Studio hits. Dennis Reitz and Bob Goodlow each homered and singled for the winners.

Winning pitcher Ron Jones delivered up 11 hits, three each to Bob Rayburn and Mark Pimlott. Mark Voss' triple was the only extra base hit off of Jones.

In losing, Tim Liddy was tagged for 23 hits.

Studio, however, received a scare from Feister Oil, emerging atop of a 3-2 decision. Studio drew first blood in the second inning, scoring twice, but Feister tied it up at 2-all in the next frame.

Russell Van Buhler, who is 79-years-young, has never shot a hole-in-one. But, last week the Belleville resident broke the long drought by aing a 152-yard shot at the Don's Par 3 Golf Course in Belleville. VanBuhler said he used a 3-wood. He golfs in the senior citizens' league each week.

Deadline is set for WW golf

It's time to set a deadline for the annual Western Wayne Golf Championships.

With approximately 40 golfers already in the fold and with the limit set at 100, golfers should get in their entry blanks and fee as soon as possible.

And that will have to be done before July 23, so that Bill Hawley,

It's still a toss-up in Canton

While deadlocked Clark Block and Little Caesar's fifth out in the B Division, over in "A", McMurray's Insurance enjoys a two-game cushion.

McMurray's has compiled a 11-1 record in the Canton Slo-Pitch Softball League; Clark Block and Little Caesar's are knotted up for first place, each sporting 7-2 won-lost ratios.

Dearborn Fabricating picked up two wins last week to pull within percentage points of first place. First, they knocked off stubborn Strook Insurance 17-6 with the help of three home runs by Rick Black, including a three-run-homer and a grand slam for 9 RBI's, to lead Dearborn's 19 hit attack.

Two nights later, Dearborn pulled out a 12-10 come-from-behind victory over Star Furniture. Star held a 7-1 lead in the third and a 9-4 lead in the fifth, capped by a three-run-homer by Doug Ryan.

But Dearborn came back with five in the fifth, with Rick Black belting another two-run-homer, and four runs in the sixth as Bill Nelkin blasted a two-run-homer.

Clark Block and Little Caesar's held on to first place as they both won the only game they played. Clark took care of Deer Creek 11-6 and Little Caesar's whalloped winless Meier's 26-12.

Clark and Little Caesar's were scheduled to play each other Thursday, but were rained out.

tournament manager, can set up tee off times and make up pairings.

The annual summer classic will be held July 31 and Aug. 1 at Fellow's Creek Golf Course, 2936 Lotz Road in Canton Township. The first four-some will tee off at 8 a.m.

The tournament is open to all male golfers from Westland, Wayne, Inkster, Garden City and Canton Township who will be competing for the city titles of their respective communities.

The low five scorers from each city will also be eligible to play on their city team in the state parks and recreation department's state tournament. All other golfers will become alternates to that team in order of finish.

Additional flight competitions will be held for each city if total entry is sufficient and trophies will be awarded to first, second and third place finishers in each flight.

There will be a tournament trophy to the individual low scorer of the entire field, the medalist.

If there is a tie for any of the trophy-awarding places, a playoff - "sudden death" - will be staged until the winner is determined.

In order to enter the tournament, please fill out the entry blank accompanying this story. Send it - or drop it off at the recreation department in your city - along with a $15.50 registration fee. The fee covers green's fee ($14) and trophies ($1.50).

Checks should be made out to The Associated Newspapers.

Further information may be obtained by calling the Sports Desk (729-4000) during the week.

The entry blank and fee may also be mailed to The Associated Newspapers, 35540 Michigan Ave., Wayne, Michigan 48184.

Canfield 2-hits Inkster to win Class D opener, 5-0

Jim Canfield picked up where he left off his prep baseball season as the Wayne Memorial sophomore hurler fired a 2-hitter to whip Inkster 5-0.

Canfield, who tossed a 2-hitter and lost to Hazel Park in the semi-final round of the Class A state high school finals a couple of weeks ago, was in command all the way against Inkster.

Staked to four runs in the second inning, Canfield went on to scatter base hits to Greg Trosien and Pat Houlihan while he whiffed 12 and walked four.

Mike Paz' base-loaded triple triggered Wayne's four run second inning.

The victory was Wayne's II first in Class D competition.

Trosien worked the first 2 two-third innings, gave up two hits, struck out three and walked six in taking the loss. He was relieved by Paul Sherlag who served up a single to Canfield, the only other hit of the game.

Wayne II grabbed sole possession of first place as it jolted Wayne I 10-0 in its first confrontation of the season.

Gary Clark pitched five perfect innings to earn the decision. Jeff Edmunds, Greg Pitt and Chuck Truskowski each checked in with two hits off of loser Al Rodgers who was tagged for a two-run homer by Don Canfield and a roundtripper to Jim Canfield.

Wayne I edged Wayne III, 5-4 to win its first and even up its record at 1-1 on the season. Wayne III's Larry Vojtkofsky and Jeff Brumlow exchanged two-run homers but a two-run Wayne I sixth inning proved to be the difference.

Dan Diadium knocked in two of the winner's runs with a single while Bruce Armstrong and Mike Wilson each had doubles.

Delvin St. Antoine and Vojtkofsky split three innings of mound duty for the losers.

Solarz worked 6½ innings, gave up five hits, fanned four and walked an equal number in winning the decision. Al Rodgers got the save.

Wayne III scored four times in the first inning then was forced to hold off a surging Inkster which lost a 5-4 decision.

Inkster wasted John McCosky's two-run homer while Pat Houlihan laced three singles for the losers.

Bill Reynolds, who lasted 6 one-third innings, gave up six hits and notched five strikeouts was the winner. He helped his own cause with a pair of singles and two RBI's. Dave Herst doubled while Chet Pickens and Tom Banner each got singles.

Meanwhile, the Bears wasted no time establishing themselves as the team to beat in Class E as they shut out the Beavers 10-0 behind Bob Novak's 2-hitter, then dumped the Rams 6-1.

The Bears scored five runs in the opening inning and that proved more than enough to beat the Beavers who had their problems against Novak's pitching.

Novak notched 10 strikeouts, walked four and gave up two singles to John Arthur and Al Schultz.

Novak, who drove in a run with a single, Jeff Bayer, Rich Porter, Jerry Buzzell, Larry Quick, Jeff James and Brian Kaminski led the winner's battery at the plate.

Porter scattered two hits to beat the Rams 6-1. He had 17 strikeouts and walked two. Porter gave up doubles to Mark Zerna and Tom Larson.

The Bears got on the board early against Tony Mach who was charged with the loss. He served up a double to Jeff Bayer while Larry Sommer's single drove in two runs for the winners.

The Wolverines rallied for two runs in the third, added three more in the fourth to come-from-behind to stop the Colts 5-2.

Greg Stano went the distance for the Colts, collecting 17 whiffs in a six-hits pitching effort.

Winning hurler Jeff Lambert turned in with a three-hitter, also picked up 17 strikeouts while walking three. Mates Ken Browe, and Tracy Conyer each had two hits.

Browe ruined Dino Falsetti's bid for the league's first no-hitter as the Beavers shut out the Wolverines 2-0. Browe latched on to a single.

Mark Timmerman also pitched a strong game for the losers as he was tagged for only two hits, one a run-scoring single by Duane Lewis in the third inning. Mark Tremont got the other hit off of Timmerman, a single.

South chooses All-Stars

Polka Dot Market and Commercial Carriers are heading for a showdown that may produce the next Romulus South Little League Senior Division baseball champ.

The battle is being staged by power Polka Dot Market managed by Cyril Bird, and a surprising Commercial Carriers team managed by Barry Baumann.

As action broke for the July 4 holidays, both teams had a 7-1 record.

Last Monday, Polka Dot drubbed Baum Funeral Home 7-0; and Commercial Carriers defeated Daly Restaurant 16-2.

In games over the weekend, Polka Dot defeated Canejo Trucking 8-0, while Commercial Carriers surprised Baum Funeral Home 3-0.

The stage now is set for the showdown between Polka Dot and Commercial Carriers as both meet Saturday and Monday, with the winner of the matches almost assured of the 1976 Championship.

The 1976 All-Star team to represent Romulus South has been chosen. Polka Dot Market is represented by: Victor Bird, Gerry LaFramboise, Doug Smith, Jim Sullivan; Commercial Carriers send: Troy Adams, Tony Cholette, Mike Bossory, and Vince Tanner.

Dan Cutcher, Steve Venier and Duane Hicks will represent Daly Restaurants; Jim Thomas, Bobby Thompson from Baum Funeral Home; and Larry Oaks will represent Canejo Trucking.

This year's Manager is Barry Baumann of Commercial Carriers, while Dann Doss of Canejo Trucking will serve as his coach.

The All-Star game will be played July 20 at the Community Building in Tavior.

One-hitter Kinunen jolts Burghuff's

Andy Kinunen turned in the season's best Class A pitching performance as he one-hit Burghuff's to win a 12-2 decision, lifting Westside Dompolski to its 11th victory in 14 starts.

Gathering goose eggs for six innings - the only Burghuff player to reach base in that span was Bill Weston who walked in the third - Kinunen lost his bid for a shutout in the seventh.

In that inning, pinch-hitter Gary Pelich led off with a slow grounder to third which he beat out, then a pair of errors paved the way for the two runs.

Dompolski exploded for five runs in the second inning, added two in the third, one more in the fifth before putting four runs on the board in the sixth.

Losing pitcher Weston gave up 17 hits, two each to Dave Reis, Bob Briggs, Frank Scunnellous and Jim Kholmman.

The victory provided Westside with a three-game cushion over second place Benny's (8-5) which was upended by Town & Country 11-10 in their last outing.

Losing pitcher Curt Witenen had his problems with Rick Press and Frank Kramer who drilled homers. Doug Warden picked up a pair of singles and a double while Ron Valek and Tony LaPere checked in with a pair of safeties.

Town & Country rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh as the first four batters who faced Witenen singled, then LaPere cracked a single to score Nelson Vanderburgh with the winning run.

In another cliffhanger, Garden City Sports edged Huron Merchants 12-11 as the losers rallied for seven runs in the last inning but fell short. Huron sent 12 men to the plate in that inning and the first five laced singles.

Kinunen also had a good night at the plate as well as he latched on to three singles. Teammates Dave Reis and Dennis Deptula each had two hits off of losing hurler Hogan.

Scoring eight times in the second inning, Spice's disposed of Burghuff's 10-4. Bob Killingbeck was the thorn in the loser's side as he stroked a two-run homer and picked up a triple and single. Teammate John Patterson chalked up three hits while Tom Reed and Ed Zucal each had two.

Winning pitcher Harry Allen, who scattered nine hits, gave up doubles to Tim Stone and Mike Plagen while Gary Pierce had two singles.

Dennis Colligan was charged with the loss. He served up 13 hits.

Meanwhile, in the only Class B game, J & D managed to eke out a 6-4 victory over Unistrut despite the loser's 12-9 edge in hits.

Westland Sporting crushes 'A' rivals

Studio put the winning run on the board in the fifth and a double play got them out of trouble in that inning.

Mike Terry's two singles led the loser's attack while Jim May, Guy Burke and Terry Marchand each collected one hit off of winning pitcher Tom Davidson.

Mike Kosutich and Tom Wilmot split four of the eight Studio hits. Mike Hardy and Ron Jones each had key hits for the winners.

The Dirty Dozens parlayed 21 hits into a 12-4 victory over the Big Bill's Sports Shop. Bill's took a 2-1 third inning lead, but the Dirty Dozens tied it up in the fourth and exploded for five runs in the fifth and five more in the seventh to clinch it.

Dave Pallister received excellent hitting support from Dick Jacobs, Dennis Deedler and Ron Bronial who all checked in with three hits. Pallister also rapped out three hits off of loser Irv Simsick.

Ed Ryan homered, Jim Darmofal supplied three hits, and both John Braczky and Jim Dwójak each had two for the losers.

The Buzz Troop cooled the Dirty Dozens, 5-2. The losers rallied for two runs in the bottom of the sixth to avert the shutout. But losing pitcher Ernie Arbergast gave up a two-run single to Ken Bear and delivered a double and triple to Mel Brooks and a single and triple to Pat Nael which led to his demise.

Winning pitcher Tim Kennedy surrendered seven hits.

The Troopers kept on marching with a 15-9 victory over Glass Crutch Lounge. Scoring six times in the first inning, the Troopers found themselves up against the wall when Glass Crutch retaliated with a run in the first, four in the second and two more in the third.

The Troopers pulled it out with a three run fifth inning rally, handing pitcher Ray Brewer the loss. Brewer gave up 17 hits, three each to Taylor, Rich DeChert and Al Briscoe while Dennis Volz collected two singles.

Brooks missed hitting for the cycle when he failed to get a homer off of winner Ken Leftwich who gave up a single, double and triple and two RBI's to the slugger. Jack Lucas also missed the cycle with a homer and Tim Kennedy hit a pair of singles and a double.

Don Phillips got the only homer of the game.

Kevin's Lounge managed to squeeze out a 10-9 victory over Feister's and Jerry Taylor. Both teams had 14 hits but a four-run Kevin's fourth was the difference.

Jeff Hodgkins pounded out a homer, double and single while Larry Glovac singled and homered for the winners who also received three hits from Ron Zuher.

Winning pitcher Bob Green had his problems with Mike Terry whose homer and double drove in two runs. Rick Wolke picked up three hits. Rob Carr had two singles.

Outfit 17-15, the Buzz Troop held on to a 11-9 victory over Big Bill's in their rematch. Winning hurler Chuck Blackman gave up four hits to Rick Radatz who carded three singles and a double.

John Braczky got the only homer off of Blackman and the game.

Blackman also made good at the plate as he drilled three singles and a double - good for three RBI's. Mates Gary Sobkowiak and Ken Bear also had three hits.

Owl's Nest titled the scoreboard nine times in its favor to score an easy 19-4 victory over the Bullets. Vern and Dick Westerlund led the winner's attack at the plate.

Vern blasted two homers and a double, bringing home seven runs while Dick, Randy Temple and Tom Deitz each had three hits.

Bob Rayburn, Ron Moyle and Jim Liddy each had two hits for the losers while Ed Marzin hammered a homer and single off of winning hurler Vern Westerlund.

In the only other game, Kevin's Lounge won a 13-10 decision over Owl's Nest Restaurant.

Bob Green, the winning pitcher, gave up three hits to losing hurler Vern Westerlund, a homer and single to Tom Dietz and a pair of singles to Phil Zuber.

Dave Barrows laced a homer, two doubles and counted four RBI's while Mike Borders carded a pair of singles and a double while both Jeff Hodgkins and Doug Walls each had two hits.

New stables to spice DRC thoroughbred meet

LIVONIA—Thoroughbred racing returns to Detroit Race Course Tuesday, July 20, and will continue 119 racing days through December 4, the latest ever that thoroughbred racing has been conducted in Michigan.

With new stables coming from Nebraska, Chicago and Kentucky, supervisor of racing Tom Dorsey predicts the Livonia track will have its best meeting in many years.

"We've really screened our stall applications this year," Dorsey said. "I had to turn down a lot of people who had decent horses that weren't quite good enough. We've got some 400 head coming in from out of state with hardly a cheap horse among them."

"We had to cut down on some of our local horsemen, unfortunately, because their stock just didn't fit our plans for higher class racing. The state legislature approved the higher takeout for increased purses with the understanding that we were going to improve our racing and that's just what we're doing."

Word from Kentucky is that Pete Salmen, Jr. of the Crimson King Farm will stable his main contingent of horses at DRC this season instead of in Chicago as he has done in past years. Salmen will bring along jockey Mike Manganello to do the bulk of the riding.

Manganello, 35, rode at DRC early in his career in the mid 60's and has returned on occasions to ride in stakes races. He won the Michigan Mile in 1973 on Golden Don. Manganello's greatest score came aboard Dust Commander in the 1970 Kentucky Derby.

Other jobkeys of note scheduled to be on hand are Sam Maple, a local star who chose to ride at the Ak-Sar-Ben meet in Omaha this year instead of at Hazel Park; Danny Whited, an accomplished veteran; and possibly brother David Whited, who in 1967 became the third jockey ever to win 100 or more races at DRC in a single meeting.

Two apprentice riders of great potential, Rob Williams and Roger Turcotte, are slated to make their first appearances in Detroit. Williams is the son of Daily Racing Form columnist Dean Williams and is currently second leading rider at the Ak-Sar-Ben meet. Turcotte, is the fourth of the well-known riding Turcotte brothers, headed by Ron who was Secretariat's regular rider.

The minimum purse for the 119 day meet will be held at $3,500 Dorsey said. Last year's minimum was $2,500.

McMurray holds off challenger

McMurray Insurance knocked off second place Smith Realty 13-3 to take a two game lead in Canton's A Division.

Smith had to play without slugger Bill Barnes, but it didn't matter as McMurray showed their power and defense when they had to. Mike Dudley and Mike Eves both blasted two-run homers, enough for the margin of victory, to lead the 19 hit attack for McMurray.

The following night McMurray edged Massey 17-14 in 8 innings in a real thriller. Massey blew it on some costly errors in the outfield and McMurray took advantage of it.

They showed their power again as Mike Eves and Ron Schebel blasted two home-runs apiece, and Bernie Jackson contributed one.

Schebel's home-run in the 8th was a two-run blast to put the game away.

Perlongo picked up two victories, both against Latin Quarter, 20-7 and 12-6, to lift themselves out of the cellar for the first time this year.

Perlongo has three wins this year, all against Latin Quarter.

The Women's League games were rained out Thursday night and will be replayed later. This means they will see action both Thursday and Friday of this week.

This will probably be the make-or-break week for Meijer's and Moeller as they are both tied for second place, one game behind Mobile Lounge.

TIPS FOR A SUCCESSFUL GARAGE SALE

There is a lot more to a really successful Garage Sale than you might think, but doing it right is simply a matter of organization and attention to certain important details. To give you the ingredients of a successful sale, here are a few timely tips:

1. WHAT TO SELL

Simply stated, anything that still has usability and some value is a good Garage Sale item. So first you must go through the storage areas of your basement, attic or garage and determine what has sales potential. Make a list as you go. You should find such things as garden tools, old furniture, good clothing, toys, musical instruments, sewing machines and the like. You may be surprised at how many articles you will have.

2. ADVERTISING

Obviously the best way to advertise your sale is in the Classified Advertising section of your newspaper. These ads are read avidly by people looking for bargains. You can keep your ad fairly short and still effective by listing the most appealing items separately and then lumping others in categories, such as furniture, clothes, toys, antiques, etc. Of course you will want to use strategically placed signs in the neighborhood -- in supermarkets, laundromats, barber shops and schools. Spread the word by mouth, also, and you will find that news will travel fast.

3. PRICING

Everything must be priced to save both you and the customer valuable time. Start by listing all items by category on an inventory sheet. Antiques, for example, should be listed separately from other items. Clothing should be priced at approximately one-eighth the original cost. Any clothing 10 to 15 years old may have nostalgic appeal and can be priced slightly higher. It might even be placed in the antiques category. Electrical appliances that work should bring one-fourth the original cost. Most prices on most articles will be influenced by condition of the items. A good-looking item can carry a good price. If you are involved in a double sale, which we will discuss next, be sure to color code your own prices.

4. DOUBLE SALE

Many people have found it worthwhile to combine their Garage Sale with that of a friend or neighbor. This saves money on costs of advertising and provides a helping hand in arranging items, pricing them, dealing with customers, besides providing welcome companionship. Don't forget to keep separate inventories and different price color coding. Another important advantage is a more impressive array of merchandise.

5. LENGTH OF THE SALE

Most productive sales are those that run at least three days. Since tests show that Thursday is the best day to advertise, the logical start of a sale would be Friday. This gives you the entire weekend in which to conduct your business. After a day or two the word will get around and supplement your advertising efforts. After the most attractive items are gone, you may wish to reconsider and change prices on those articles which have been slow to move.

One-day sales may be profitable for the experienced Garage Sale promoters but in the beginner's case many things can go wrong, such as a rainy day, and you may have to advertise all over again.

6. SETTING UP YOUR SALE

The few days before your sale, naturally, will be concerned with selection and pricing, but there are some other important preliminary steps. You will need change, so get to the bank and get plenty of small bills and various size coins. Set up a headquarters table conveniently located for your customers, and from where you can supervise the operation. Here you will keep your change, your adding machine, your inventory lists. Always have someone in attendance. You also may want to install a hat and coat rack and a mirror for the use of those who may want to try on garments. Arrange sale items in neat rows and allow plenty of walking room between displays.

7. DON'T HESITATE TO ASK FOR ADVICE

Your Classified Advertising department is always ready to advise you on your Garage Sale. When you advertise it, ask for help from one of our Ad-Visors so that your message will have maximum impact. And good luck!

STORE FOODS PROPERLY, PRESERVE VITAMINS, FRESHNESS, & FINE FLAVOR

1. Keep fresh meat, fish, and poultry refrigerated until cooking time. Freeze meat that won't be used within two or three days after purchase. Freeze hamburger, poultry, and seafood immediately if you won't be using it within one day. Remember that quick use assures highest quality, maximum nutrients.
2. If you're freezing meat for one or two weeks, it's fine to leave just the plastic store wrap on the meat. But for longer storage, cover the plastic with foil to prevent dehydration, freezer burn, and flavor changes.
3. Green peas and lima beans should be left in the pods, and corn in the husks, until ready to use.
4. Cut off tops and root tips from carrots, beets, and radishes to minimize wilting. (Serve beet tops as a vegetable - they're rich in vitamin A, and iron.)
5. Refrigerate leftover vegetables as soon as possible and use them within a day or two.
6. Keep most vegetables in the crisper section of the refrigerator or enclosed in plastic bags to assure the high humidity that prevents wilting.
7. Potatoes, onions, carrots, and sweet potatoes keep best in a cool place (about 50 degrees F.)
8. Ripen tomatoes at room temperature; refrigerate when ripe. Use as soon as they are ripe because tomatoes lose vitamin C with aging.
